

Mark Brumley Bio:

Mark Brumley is President of the Board of Directors of Guadalupe Associates and Chief Executive Officer for Ignatius Press. He also oversees magazines for Ignatius Press, is project coordinator for the Ignatius Catholic Study Bible, and is editor of Ignatius Press's Modern Apologetics Library. He is associate publisher of IgnatiusInsight.com.

Brumley has contributed to National Review Online, Catholic World Report, and the National Catholic Register, among other publications. He is author of “How Not to Share Your Faith” and adjunct professor for the Institute for Pastoral Theology of Ave Maria University.

A convert from Evangelical Protestantism, he was greatly influenced by Louis Bouyer’s book “The Spirit and Forms of Protestantism,” when he first read it over twenty years ago. Mark lives in Napa, California with his wife and five children.